

Are you a PhD candidate or a PhD holder working in religious studies, semiotics, communication sciences, or related disciplines?

Are you interested in exploring hope as a semiotic, ethical, and religious device within contemporary transformations marked by global crises, symbolic shifts, and new forms of individual and collective fragility?

CALL FOR TEN (10) PARTICIPATION GRANTS FOR PARTICIPATION IN THE CONFERENCE

THE LAST TO DIE: Semiotics of Hope between Religion and Ethics

Conference overview

Theme: THE LAST TO DIE: Semiotics of Hope between Religion and Ethics

Duration: One day

Location: Trento, Bruno Kessler Foundation, Via S. Croce 77, Aula Grande

Date: April 27, 2026

Language: English. Contributions in other languages are allowed with English translation

The organizers offer a participation grant (Conference Grant) of up to 300 EUR for each selected participant, covering travel and accommodation expenses through reimbursement.

Ten (10) participation grants are available. Applicants will be selected based on the quality and relevance of their research and contributions. Applications will be evaluated by an internal committee of the FBK-ISR Center.

Eligibility criteria

PhD candidates or PhD holders in religious studies, semiotics, communication sciences, or related disciplines may apply.

How to apply

See here

